Lewis Issues Call for Miner-Operator Conference President Lays Peace Plan Before Rail Executives Seven Killed When Excursion Train Collides Head-On

RAIL EXECUTIVES BALK AT SENIORITY RIGHTS PROPOSAL AND WILL SUBMIT COUNTER-PROPOSALS LATE IN THE DAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Congress will soon be asked to clothe the Railroad Labor Board with such authority that neither railroad executives nor union labor leaders will dare disregard its mandate, Senators in the confidence of the Administration declared today. This is to be the principle item of a legislative program decided upon by President Harding, his Cabinet and Ben W. Hooper, Chairman of the Railroad Labor Board as a means of preventing the flouting of the Board in the future.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—President Harding today made public his proposal to the railroad managers and striking shopmen for the termination of the rail strike. The disturbing factor is that the seniority rights of the strikers are to be unimpaired. President Harding said that other details of his plan were sent to the railroad executives and the leaders of the shopmen. The President's proposal follows:

- 1.—The railway managers and workmen are to agree to recognize the validity of all decisions of the Railroad Labor Board and faithfully carry out its decisions as contemplated by law.
- 2.—The carriers will withdraw all lawsuits growing out of the strike and all Railroad Labor Board decisions which have been involved in the strike may be taken in the exercise of recognized rights by either party to the Railroad Labor Board for re-hearing.
- 3.—All employees now on strike shall be returned to work and with their former positions, with seniority rights, unimpaired.

The representatives of the organizations expressly agree that there shall be no discrimination by either party against the employees who did not strike.

Washington, D. C., August 1.—President Harding, believing the end of the rail strike is at hand, will make a new move this week to settle the coal strike, a member of the Cabinet told the United Press today. This new move in the coal strike, daily becoming more menacing to the nation, will be discussed at a Cabinet meeting today. Confident that the President's program for settling the shopmen's strike will be formally accepted by rail executives and union leaders meeting in New York and Chicago today, the Cabinet expected to devote its entire session to discussion of the coal situation. The President hopes to bring about a resumption of mining by following the same tactics that he employed in the rail strike during the last week.

New York, August 1.—A counter-proposal to President Harding's suggestion for rail peace was in the hands of a

BITTER FIGHT BEING STAGED IN STATE OF MISSOURI TODAY FOR LEADERSHIP

Senator Reed, Wilson's Foe,
Defending His Toga Against Breckenridge Long, Former Member Of Administration.

NATION WATCHES FIGHT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—(United Press)—The political fate of Senator James A. Reed, long a figure in democratic national politics, was at stake today as Missouri voters went to the polls to select nominees in the state wide primary election.

Breckenridge Long, former third assistant secretary of state during Wilson's administration, and Robert I. Young, of St. Joseph, are Reed's opponents for the democratic senatorial nomination, with the choice apparently lying between Long and Reed.

Throughout the campaign Long has enjoyed the indirect, at least, support of former President Woodrow Wilson. His letters to a St. Louis newspaper and Missouri politicians assailed Reed's record in the Senate and charged in substance that the senior Missouri senator had deserted the democratic party.

They were interpreted throughout the state as endorsing the candidacy of Long, although the latter's name was never directly mentioned.

The names of seven aspirants for the republican senatorial nomination appear on today's ballot. While none can be strictly regarded as the "old guard" candidate, R. R. Brewster, Kansas City attorney, comes nearest to earning that title. Backed by a strong coalition of "standpatters", he is certain to draw a big vote in Kansas City and St. Louis.

A Hot Campaign

The republican campaign, slow to get under way as compared with the Reed-Long fight, developed a bitter rivalry between Brewster and State Senator David M. Proctor, also of Kansas City, during the closing days of the race. This rivalry and the resentment of adherents to other candidates against the formation of the Brewster "coalition," resulted in the exchange of several heated and pointed communications.

Of the five other republican candidates—Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett; John C. McKinley, former lieutenant governor; William Sacks, St. Louis millionaire banker; Colonel John H. Parker, commandant of the 7th army corps area, and Sterling Bond, St. Louis—the first two named are considered "in the race."

Proctor, who stumped the state in a thorough fashion, claims 75 per cent of the counties, while backers of

HERRIN MOB WAS THE LEAST TO BLAME SAY INVESTIGATORS

Strife Breeding Mass

Lewis Wrote "Shovel-men Were Outlaws."

SHERIFF WAS LAX

Pittsburgh, July 31.—The National Coal Association in a statement issued tonight announced completion of a sweeping impartial investigation of the Herrin Massacre, declared that the leaders of the mob were known and that at least 500 members can be arrested whenever the word is given. The association is laying its evidences and findings before the Governor of Illinois.

"Particular emphasis should be laid on the fact that survivors of the massacre can point out the officials of the United Mine Workers who gave the word to take the unarmed officials off the road into the woods and shoot them down," says the announcement. The statement adds:

"The National Coal Association supports the contention that the massacre was the result of a well laid conspiracy and that the riot was not spontaneous."

"Lewis' telegraphic instructions to treat the members of the steam shovel Union as an outlaw organization and common strike breakers was followed on successive days by mass meetings, attack on the mine and the massacre. Lewis and Senator W. J. Sneed, president of the Williamson county sub-district, must assume responsibility for throwing a match into the powder box."

Sheriff to Blame

St. Louis, July 31.—Responsibility for not preventing a demonstration which resulted in the killing of 19 employees by union miners and sympathizers near Herrin, Ill., is placed upon Sheriff Saxton, of Williamson county by Colonel Samuel Hunter of the Illinois National Guard in his official report.

Will Defend Union Men

Springfield, July 31.—The Illinois branch of the United Mine Workers will finance and direct the defense of every union miner brought to trial for the Herrin massacre, Frank Farrington announced today.

"The very magnitude and sternness of the agitation for the punishment of those involved creates danger for innocent men," says a statement issued by Farrington this afternoon.

Mrs. Robie Hoover and Miss Inez Smeal are spending their vacation with friends in Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada.

ENGINE PLOWS THRU CHURCH PICNIC CAR NEAR CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 1.—At least seven persons were killed and more than a score of others injured when an excursion train bearing more than three hundred picnickers of the Park M. E. Negro Church collided head on with a train of the Cincinnati, Lebanon & Northern Railroad at Pleasant Ridge today. The trains met at a bend in the road. Rescuers hurrying to the scene of disaster were horrified by the spectacle.

The engine had run half way through the first coach of the picnic train which was bound for Highland Grove.

BRITAIN IN NOTE TELLS ALLIES HOW BAD THEY'RE OFF

London, England, Aug. 1.—Great Britain today despatched notes to Germany, France and Italy regarding the instability of the international debts and it was considered that the sending of these notes was a plain hint to America. A note was to have been delivered to the United States as well but at the eleventh hour it was withdrawn. The reason for the withdrawal was given that it might have been considered as a request for remission of Great Britain's debt to America.

HARD TIMES BUT 100,000 MORE OF US OWN FLIVVERS

Last year at this time the highest license number read 573-019, while 677-931 licenses were issued during the first six months of this year.

HISTORY AS IT IS—NOT WRITTEN

Jury Commissioner Harry Conner, of URBAN, was in town today, boosting for the Cherry Tree Centennial which starts Thursday and continues the remainder of the week. Harry says he has a personal interest in this historic celebration because he remembers, as a boy, when he and Charley Patrick stood on the river bank at Burnside and threw stones at Billy Penn as he poled his canoe past the place on his way to Cherry Tree to dicker with the Indians when he was arranging to purchase Penn's Woods. Harry says he can prove his statement by Comrade John Stauffer, who interfered and told the boys they should be more civil to strangers.

Mrs. Cyrus Mickles of Curwensville left today for Orbisonia to spend some time with friends there.

PITTSBURGH COAL PRODUCERS PROMPTLY REJECT INVITATION OF LEWIS TO MEET AT CLEVELAND TO NEGOTIATE MONDAY

Reiterate Their Position That They Will Not Be A Party To A Four-State Agreement Or Take Any Part In Conference Call On That Basis

CONCILIATORY MOOD IS NOW BLOCKED

PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 1.—The scale committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers Association today rejected John L. Lewis' invitation for a joint conference of miners and operators in Cleveland next Monday.

R. W. Gardiner, Commissioner of the Association, wired Lewis that the Pittsburgh operators were willing to negotiate a wage scale for mines in the Pittsburgh district but would not be a party to a four-state joint conference.

Pittsburgh, Pa., August 1.—Although repeatedly denying it will become a member of a four-state conference, the Pittsburgh Coal Association today called a meeting for the purpose of discussing President Lewis' invitation to attend such a conference in Cleveland next Monday.

Indianapolis, Indiana, August 1.—Assurances that a majority of the mine operators in the central bituminous field would attend the interstate wage conference with coal strike leaders at Cleveland next Monday were given to Governor McCray today by Harold Henderson, representing the United Mine Workers.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 1.—John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, today issued an invitation to the coal operators of the central competitive field to attend a conference to be held in Cleveland Monday, August 7th. In calling the conference Lewis declared he was actuated by a desire to protect the public welfare and an impelling necessity for early adjudication of the issues involved in the bituminous and anthracite coal fields. The telegram sent to the interests in the central competitive field today follows:

In behalf of the United Mine Workers of America I am herewith inviting the coal operators of the central competitive field to meet in joint interstate conference at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., Monday, August 7th, 1922, for the purpose of negotiating a basic wage agreement designed to terminate the present coal strike. I express the sincere hope that the interests represented by you will find it possible to participate in the joint negotiations.

(Signed) JOHN L. LEWIS, President,
U. M. W. of A.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF "HENRY" OWNER ENOUGH TO MAKE MAYOR WEEP

His Old Boat Had No Lamps,
A 1920 License Tag, And A Record For "Getting By"
That Takes The Barlow.

GOT FINE CHARGED, TOO!

This automobile game and the attempt to enforce the motor traffic law develops some queer birds and queer happenings hereabouts. One night last week Chief of Police McMullen "lamped" an ancient Ford coming rattling down Second street. There wasn't a single ray of light from the machine and the Chief stepped out into the street and promptly flagged the driver. When he pulled up his rickety old tin steed the Chief asked where his lights were. "The darned things played out more'n a year ago," said the driver. Looking about the decrepit old vehicle the Chief discovered the absence of a license tag from the front of the machine. When asked where his license tag was the driver replied that the darn thing had been lost. Asked why he didn't have it more securely fastened he replied that he supposed it was fastened alright when it was first put on, but three years of rattling over these roads would shake pretty near everything loose about a Ford.

With that the Chief gave the rear license number the once over and was more than surprised to find a better

ed 1920 tag hanging to the tail end by one ear, so to speak. "Haven't you had a new license tag since 1920," remarked the Chief. "Nope," replied the auto owner: "haven't had money enough since to get one, so had to make the old one do."

The driver was haled before Burgess Kittelberger and when placed on the carpet repeated his story to the Burgess. Asked if he didn't know it was a violation of the motor traffic law to drive a car in 1922 under a 1920 license, the impetuous one replied "yeap" he supposed it was, but what's a feller gone to do when he has no coin with which to get another one; besides I run the dern thing all last year and no body cut up any high jinks about it."

The Mayor said well we'll have to fine you $10 and costs, $12.50 in all. "Can't pay it," replied the Jehu; "haven't any money; you'll have to take the car."

"Nothing doing on that stuff," replied the Burgess: "you can't wish that old thing on us, we'll trust you to the fine and lend you a red lantern off the street to get that thing out of town, and don't you ever dare to bring it back here." Firing up his pipe and promising to pay the fine some day the fellow with his ancient license plate and more ancient Henry set sail for his Lawrence township home.

STARS ON MEMORIAL TREES

Living Monuments to 308 of Missouri's Hero Dead Line the Famous King's Highway.

Living monuments, sheltering those who come their way, always serving, 308 pleasant shade trees along King's highway in St. Louis stand as a monument to 308 Missouri lads who gave their lives during the World war.

In Memory of Hero Dead.

Each tree bears a gold star. A hero's name, the name of the unit and branch of service to which he was attached are engraved on each star. The trees were planted on Arbor Day by members of the American Legion. Many of the mothers of the men in whose memory the trees stand helped place the gold stars on the European sycamores, sweet gums and green oaks that line either side of the parkway.

RANKING WEST POINT CADET

Charles Barrett, Former "Buck" Private, Honor Man of Class of 1922 at Great Academy.

From a "buck private in the rear rank" in 1917 to the highest ranking cadet at West Point is the record of Charles J. Barrett, "honor man" of the 1922 class at the military academy.

Barrett went to France as a member of the 20th division. With 181 other "hand picked" soldiers he was chosen to take the examination for West Point. He took high honors.

At the academy he was made regimental commander, editor of the school magazine and chairman of the board of governors. Despite his other activities, he has found time to do enough studying during his four years to land him at the head of his class.

MARSHAL FOCH HAD THE TIME

Famous French Fighter Aids Blind War Victim Seeking Wounded Soldiers' Institute.

The splendid spirit of Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France, who won the hearts of the American people when he taught this country as the guest of the American Legion last year is illustrated by a story from Paris.

A blind veteran tapped his way along the sidewalk. "Excuse me, and I am not quite sure of the way."

"You are close to it now; let me take you," came the reply.

Arriving at the door of the institute the guide said to the junior: "Kindly take this man to the section for the blind."

"Take him yourself," growled the junior. "Under the archway on the other side of the courtyard."

The civilian did take the veteran but on the way out he addressed the junior again.

"Could you not be a little more obliging to the blind?" he asked gently.

"There are too many and I haven't the time," was the snuffy response.

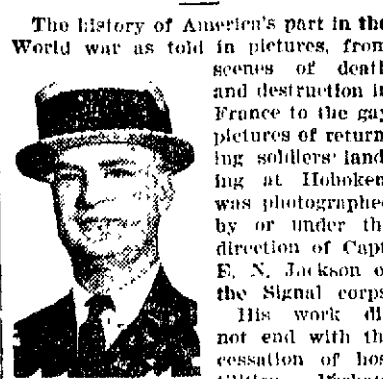

"It seems to me that it is your duty to help them," said the other. "I can find time—and I am Marshal Foch."

MADE WORLD WAR PICTURES

Capt. E. N. Jackson of Signal Corps Photographed Important Events During Conflict.

The history of America's part in the World war as told in pictures, from scenes of death and destruction in France to the gay pictures of returning soldiers landing at Hoboken, was photographed by or under the direction of Capt. E. N. Jackson of the Signal Corps.

His work did not end with the cessation of hostilities. Perhaps his was the most interesting role played by any member of the A. E. F. after the armistice. When President Wilson went to France the story of his activities was photographed by Captain Jackson. Whether the president shook hands with a European soldier, signed an important paper or had dinner with a king, Captain Jackson was there with his camera.

Today, the official photographs taken by Captain Jackson and his staff are to be found in galleries, libraries, public buildings and private homes in every part of the United States. Mr. Jackson, no longer a captain, is now editing the shutter as one of the staff photographers of the New York Daily News. He spends his spare time at the clubhouse of the American Legion, Signal post No. 343, in New York city.

GREETINGS TO THE TOMMIES

Vice Commander Jackson Carried Commander MacNider's Message to the British Legion.

The first man to cross the Atlantic ocean with a message from American World war service men exclusively to British Tommies. That man is H. Nelson Jackson of Burlington Vt., one of the national vice commanders of the American Legion who recently represented the Legion at an annual meeting of the British Legion, made up of World war service men of the British Isles.

During the war Mr. Jackson served in the Medical corps and for gallantry in action was decorated with the D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor of France. He was promoted through the various ranks from first Lieutenant to Lieutenant Colonel.

The greetings which Mr. Jackson presented to the British Legion in behalf of Commander Harford MacNider declared that: "No generation of our nation have been so closely bound together. Through the coming years it must be our mutual duty to so strengthen and cement these ties that from this great undertaking may come peace to all the world."

SPENT MONTHS IN AN ASYLUM

New Zealand Government Is Probing Case of Subject Imprisoned at Elgin, Ill.

The New Zealand government is investigating the case of Robert M. Thompson of Christchurch, World war veteran, who has just returned to his home in New Zealand, after having spent several months in the asylum for the insane at Elgin, Ill.

Thompson came to the United States after having his health shattered in the war. Acting on the advice of the Canadian government, which looks after New Zealand military pensioners in America, he called at the office of the veterans' bureau in Chicago. A week after Thompson first called at the office of the bureau, he says that he found himself a regular inmate in the asylum at Elgin, receiving very poor food and indifferent treatment.

He finally succeeded in smuggling letters out to a former college friend who took the matter up with the asylum authorities. His release was arranged on the condition that he leave the United States immediately.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Jesup, Ia., with fewer than 800 population has 130 American Legion members.

Strangers seeking help in Correctionville, Ia., must be passed on by a committee of leading citizens, the business men and American Legion posts of the city have decided.

Out of 550 men 276 were found to have some kind of physical disability in a canvass of former service men in Clay county, Iowa conducted by the American Red Cross and the American Legion.

A delegate at the state American Legion auxiliary convention at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was enthusiastically applauded when she stated on the convention floor that she was "German in birth but wholly American in spirit." She had two sons in service.

The best way to a floor is made of a mixture of heavy padding and turpentine.

Clearfield, July 31, 1922

Dear Skinny:

I very much approve your writeup concerning the Automobile controversy of Chester Hill Borough, and I think it would be more to the credit of the Clearfield and Philipsburg Commercial Clubs if they would raise a fund to help care for the poor unfortunate people who are run down by speeding automobiles, than it is to use their funds to defend reckless, speeding, lawbreaking automobile drivers. Could you induce the Mayor of Chester Hill to move to Clearfield, as I would be pleased to vote for him Chief Law Enforcer for Clearfield.

(Signed)—A Clearfield Citizen, who believes that the fellow who walks should not have to run as fast as our Champion, Mr. Torrence, in order to cross our streets in safety.

And while on this subject of automobile vs. pedestrian, as some people would have it, another automobile driver interested in the controversy asks that the following be given space as being helpful and conducive to greater safety on the public highways:

Pedestrians along country roads and those who walk in the streets at night in preference to using the sidewalks can contribute materially toward the reduction of automobile accidents by walking on the left side of the road, facing oncoming traffic, according to Daj H. Lewis, acting executive chairman of the American Automobile Association.

"Curtesy on the part of the automobile driver demands the use of dimmed lights at night," said Mr. Lewis, "and this factor while it contributes to the safety of passing motorists, makes it exceedingly difficult for the automobile driver to see a pedestrian walking along the edge of the road in the same direction as the traffic. This difficulty is increased if the pedestrian happens to be wearing dark clothing. The result is that the driver is practically on top of the pedestrian before the latter becomes visible."

"The pedestrian should remember that the rules of the road require the motorist to keep to the right and should contribute to that factor of safety which best enables him to escape the oncoming car and especially the occasional speed fiend or 'Riverbooby' who cares nothing for consequences and speeds regardless of the rights of others, for it has been truly said that 'if you were in the right or not does not matter after you are in the hands of the undertakers.'"

ROOSEVELT NEVER SWORE

It has been said, less in jest, perhaps, than in earnest, that not even lying is an easier habit to acquire than swearing. George Washington could not stoop to the one but he did stoop to the other. Whether a majority of men swear or not there is no way of telling. But it is certain that there are men who have not used profane language at some time or other, while millions are addicted to it habitually.

It is of no little interest, therefore, to learn from what apparently unanswerable authority that robust as he was, and given to emphatic language beyond perhaps any other person of his day and generation, Theodore Roosevelt loathed and never uttered profanity. A recent writer brought this aspect of the great Rough Rider's personality to the public attention by telling an anecdote in which Colonel Roosevelt was represented as "cussing" vigorously. This was so violent in conflict with the deportment of the real Roosevelt that a number of his friends immediately protested, Mark Sullivan leading off.

Lawrence F. Abbott, Gifford Pinchot, Henry Cabot Lodge, and other close friends of the colonel's corroborate Mr. Sullivan unqualifiedly, denying that he ever used a profane word, even under what ordinary men would deem a great provocation. On one occasion, out in the Bad Lands of Dakota, he went so far as to brave being shot by rebuking Hell Roarin' Bill Jones in an insulting manner for that desperado's blasphemous habits.

The only way in which the former president can be conceived or believed ever to have sworn is the same way (Mr. Abbott says) in which Bishop Phillips Brooks once swore. The bishop was fishing and hooked a big trout, then lost it after playing it half an hour, and when his guide involuntarily exclaimed, "That's a damned shame," the bishop said, "You're quite right, John." The country will think none the less of "Teddy" because he was clean of speech. If there could be stronger proof than he that profanity is neither a mark of manliness nor a requisite of emphasis, we cannot imagine what it is. The revelation of the Rooseveltian disgust for the practice is worth a place not merely in his biographies but in the news of the day.

ADDRESS CAREFULLY

There is in this country no public undertaking more vital than the United States post office. This great organization reaches daily into our lives, and millions of citizens throughout the land share in its activities every hour. We have come to accept the workings of this great machine as complacently as we accept the changing seasons. We look upon it as an impersonal thing in the operation of which the individual citizen plays no part, wholly forgetting the fact that the most trivial letter or postcard message gets as much attention from postal employees as does the letter which conveys the most important tidings. We write a letter and drop it absent-mindedly into the box without a question as to whether it will get to its destination.

There can't be anything impersonal in an organization like that. It is our attitude that is impersonal and needs attention. One moment's reflection on how elaborate and vast our postal system is would make us marvel at its efficiency. Following that moment's reflection we should dictate another one to the thought of how much could be accomplished if those of us who write letters were more careful in directing them.

From a recent statement of the United States post office we learn that 20,000,000 letters go astray each year and reach the dead letter office. In addition to this it must be remembered that millions of letters wrongly addressed finally reach their destination through the patience and ingenuity of postal employees. The sum total of useless work which people make for the department by addressing their letters carelessly involves incredible outlay of time and energy of post office staffs. And it costs the citizens a heap of money.

By giving a little more personal attention to the part he plays in it as sender of letters or packages, the individual can do a great deal to make this organization more efficient—the most vital public undertaking in our country today.

Europe would be a great place if there were any truth in the popular notion that the sadder men are the wiser there become.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO PREVENT
SPREAD OF EUROPEAN CORN BOREREuropean Corn Borer in Various Stages and Its Work.
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Special efforts to prevent the European corn borer from spreading to the corn belt, which it now threatens to do from the southern shore of Lake Erie, will be made this season by the United States Department of Agriculture. The most important single measure will be the rigid enforcement of federal quarantine regulations by the federal horticultural board of the department, in co-operation with the Canadian government and the various states where the pest now exists. This will prevent other infestations of the insect from coming into the United States and will go a long way toward keeping the borer from being carried to other parts of the country.

The bureau of entomology of the department has prepared its plans for investigating the insect, which was discovered in this country during 1917, with a view to applying and amplifying methods of controlling it. The slight infestations along the lake shore, it is believed, will not cause serious injury to corn there immediately, giving ample time for a careful study of the insect and its behavior in this new environment before actual commercial damage is done. For this purpose the bureau will establish immediately a number of entomologists at Sandusky, Ohio.

May Have Come From Canada.

The infestation on Lake Erie, it is believed, originated in the province of Ontario, Canada, where a severe infestation has been present for several years. Favorable winds during the flight season of the moth in the summer of 1921 are supposed to have compelled the adult insects to fly across the lake to the American side, where they became established along almost the entire southern shore. Records of the weather bureau indicate that for the first time in five or six years the winds prevailing then blew from the north or northwest for several days at a time. It is not thought, therefore, that this condition will prevail again for several years, and other moths be blown over.

In order to watch this phase of the matter, however, the bureau of entomology will request permission of the lighthouse service to station observers during the flight season at the powerful lights maintained along the southern shore. They will ascertain, if possible, whether moths are attracted to the lights from the other side.

The federal quarantine includes 144 cities and towns in Massachusetts, three in Michigan, 12 in New Hampshire, 115 in New York, 42 in Ohio, and 13 in Pennsylvania, and prohibits the shipment of corn and broom corn, including all parts of the stalk, cut flowers or cut plants of chrysanthemum, aster, cosmos, zinnia, hollyhock, and cut flowers or entire plants of gladiolus and dahlias, except the bulbs, to other states throughout the year. The ban applies to other products for the period between June 1 and December 31, in the New England territory. The prohibition applies to corn and broom corn, including all parts of the stalk, all sorghums and sudan grass from infested areas in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan throughout the year. No restrictions are placed on the interstate movement of clean shelled corn and clean seed of broom corn.

Control Practices Recommended.
To control the corn borer on the farm, the department recommends the following practices:

1. Burn, or otherwise destroy, before May 1 of each year, all cornstalks, corn cobs, corn stubble, vegetable, field and flower crop remnants, weeds and large-stemmed grasses of the previous year.
2. Keep cultivated fields, fence rows, field borders, roadsides and such places free from large weeds or large-stemmed grasses.
3. Cut corn close to the ground.
4. Cut and remove sweet corn fodder from the field as soon as the ears are harvested. Feed direct to live stock or place in silo.
5. Cut and remove field corn from the field as soon as the ears are mature. Feed the stalks to live stock as soon as possible and burn or otherwise dispose of the uneaten parts before May 1 following. Shred or cut the fodder to increase its consumption.
6. Plow under thoroughly, in the fall, all infested cornstalks, corn stubble, other crop remnants, weeds and stubble material which it is impractical to destroy in any other manner. When necessary to adopt this practice an attempt should be made to plow under all the material to a depth of at least 6 inches.
7. Plant small areas of early sweet corn to act as a trap crop, adjacent to fields intended for field corn or late sweet corn. Feed, or otherwise destroy, this early sweet corn, as soon as the ears are harvested, or preferably just before that period, if the grower is willing to sacrifice the ears. Such plantings, where not destroyed at the proper time, constitute a menace to later corn.

8. Limit the size of cornfields to areas that can be kept free of weeds.

9. Do not plant corn within 50 feet of beets, beans, celery, spinach, rhubarb, or flowering plants intended for sale.

10. Do not throw the uneaten parts of cornstalks used as feed or bedding into the manure pile unless this material is worked into piles containing enough fresh horse manure to produce heating.

11. Do not transport outside of the infested area, any of the plants, or plant products, listed in Federal Quarantine No. 43.

12. Do not transport any living stages of the European corn-borer outside of the infested areas.

13. Do not place in swill container any sweet corn ears or portions thereof or discarded portions of celery, beets, beans, rhubarb, and spinach when this material is suspected of containing the borer.

14. Do not dump cornstalks, or other plant refuse from the vegetable and flower garden on public dumps nor on the edge or flood level of brooks, rivers, and other bodies of water.

15. Do not attempt to circumvent the quarantine regulations. The penalty is severe.

16. Do not mix products grown within the infested area with those grown outside the infested area.

17. Do not label packages containing flowers or other products with misleading statements of contents.

18. Do not pack produce in boxes or other containers until all old tags and permits have been removed.

19. Do not feel angry if products are confiscated at border lines for violation of quarantine regulations. Such action is the most lenient that may be taken under the law.

MOLESKINS VALUABLE
SOLD THROUGH POOLSBoys and Girls Have Formed
Clubs for Trapping.Taught Approved Methods by Extension
Workers and Representatives of Biological Survey—Prizes
for Gophers.

Moleskins, which brought little or nothing in the ordinary fur markets, have been successfully pooled and sold in Washington and Oregon through farm bureau organizations. Boys and girls in many communities have formed clubs for trapping moles. Through the co-operative work of the extension agents and representatives of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, they have been taught approved methods of trapping and skinning the moles.

Two hundred and twenty mole pelts were sold in Benton county, Ore., for boys and girls trappers. Linn county, Ore., reports three communities which offered 10 cents each for moles and pocket gophers and an additional prize for the three children killing the most pests. One community reports $3 moles killed in this way.

Tillamook county, Ore., was divided into four districts, and $50 purses were allotted to each district for first, second, and third prizes. The county paid a 5-cent bounty on both moles and pocket gophers. The moleskins were stored in the county agent's office until a salable amount was collected. They were then sold to the highest bidder. All money received for the skins was returned to the trappers.

OVERCOME PLANT DISEASES

Practical Plan to Allow Land to Remain Idle or Use Crop Immune
to Ailment.

There are several diseases of vegetables which live over in the garden soil from one year to the next, and if the same crop is planted in the same soil year after year it will be but a short time until the crop will prove a loss. These are mostly fungous and bacterial diseases and the only practical way to overcome them is to allow the land to lie idle for two or three years or to plant a crop which is immune to the disease.

BOXER WHO SINGS AND READS

W. H. Littleton, an Ex-Gob, One of
Many Legion Sluggers to Carry
Away Honors.

A boxer who slugs baritone and reads classical literature is about as rare as a fish in a barrel. William Harrison, better known as "Happy" Littleton, southern middle-weight champion boxer, has an unusually good baritone voice which he uses when the boys get together to have a little harmony. A boxer who peruses the classics might be expected to be a "tea hound," and it is rumored that Littleton has been known to balance the china cup on his knee.

But the fact that Littleton can sing, read and drink tea doesn't keep him from being a good boxer. He recently wrecked the knuckles on both his hands on Billy Shado's head when the two met in New Orleans. He won the decision in that match just as he had in others with Joe Chap, Battling Ortega, Joe Borrell and Jack Bloodfield. Littleton, an ex-gob, is one of the many American Legion boxers who have carried away the laurels in bouts in every section of the country.

INTERESTED IN LEGION WORK

Maj. Gen. John Lejeune Accepts Invitation to Attend Annual Convention in New Orleans.

In accepting the invitation of the American Legion to attend the fourth annual convention of the legion in New Orleans, La., in October, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States marine corps, expressed his appreciation of the legion, and his interest in its activities.

"Louisiana is my native state, and for that reason, as well as on account of my interest in the American Legion, it will be a privilege for me to be with you at the convention," General Lejeune said.

The military career of the marine corps leader embraces service in the Spanish-American and World wars. He came into greatest prominence when he commanded the Fourth brigade of marines of the Second division, which saw service at St. Mihiel, Mont Blanc ridge, the Meuse-Argonne and in the Rhine country.

Governor Signs Bonus Bill.
Governor Cox of Massachusetts has signed a bill which makes more than 400 additional World war veterans eligible for the $100 state bonus. The bill provides that any man who was a resident of the state within the year preceding his enlistment is eligible for the bonus, or if the man's parents were in the state a year prior to his enlistment, although he may have been in another state, he can collect.

About to Arrest Mme. Joffre.
While Marshal Joffre of France was being received at the Pennsylvania station in New York city by a group of American Legion officials and members of the mayor's reception committee, Mme. Joffre went upstairs to wait for the hero of the French people. While Mme. Joffre waited, one of New York's "finest" told her to "move on." He was about to take action because his order was ignored when a rescue party headed by General Bullard arrived and escorted Mme. Joffre to her waiting automobile.

Aids Are Needed.
There is urgent need at hospitals of the veterans' bureau for reconstruction aides in physiotherapy and occupational therapy in connection with the rehabilitation of disabled veterans of the World war, according to an announcement made by the United States civil service commission. Applicants for these positions are not required to report for written examinations, but are rated upon the subjects of education, training experience and physical ability. Information may be obtained from the U. S. civil service commission, Washington, D. C.

Carrying-On With the American Legion

Rumors that state prison labor is being used to compete with private industrial concerns has caused an investigation by the Seattle (Wash.) American Legion.

A Philadelphia concern is organizing an expedition to salvage the $5,000,000 known to have been on board the Lusitania when the vessel was sunk by a German torpedo.

Leonard T. Paul, of Grinnell college, Ia., with a leg scarred by shrapnel wounds, recently broke 100 and 200-yard dash records in an intercollegiate track meet held in Chicago.

A memorial highway extending east and west across Virginia has been suggested by the Virginia American Legion as a memorial to the state's World war heroes.

Slump in hair bobbing is reported at bobber shops. It may be getting old-fashioned.

Cotton Underwear Popular

No one disputes the charm of colored batistes, checked gingham, striped voiles and dimities, flowered crepes and tissue, gingham used in the newest lingerie. Ruffles and pipings are used for trimmings but not a superabundance of lace.

Shark Enjoyed "Scratching."
A diver, working off the Australian coast, had an odd adventure. A 12-foot shark came nosing up to him, and as its rough hide might have damaged his suit, he held the point of his steel "jumper" toward the intruder. This seemed to be just what the shark wanted, and he rubbed himself against it as a pig does against a stick when he is being scratched. He kept the diver at work for half an hour, and at last made off.

Origin of the Name "Old Hickory."
Gen. Andrew Jackson first was called "Tough" then "Tough as Hickory," and lastly "Old Hickory." Another story is that in 1813, when engaged in war with the Creek Indians, he felt short of supplies, and fed his men on hickory nuts.

The Urge of Success.
Once the task of success gets you, there is born an eternal urge unsatisfied with inferior things. It compels success. The problems that discourage weaklings put fire into the blood and make men irresistible. The neighbors wonder how it all happens. It doesn't happen. It's just nature asserting herself and worthy youth coming into his own.—Exchange.

Beautiful Papuan Villages.
Some of the Papuan communities are literally "villages beautiful." They are idyllic, with streets sandaled and planted with ornamental shrubs. In the center are little plazas or "palaver spots" where conferences are held. These are paved with flat stones beside which are erected stone pillars to serve as backrests.

Handkerchief linen, and especially pink handkerchief linen, is having a sudden vogue for midsummer wear. It is sheer and cool and lends itself to many different styles.

Before Them.

An English lecturer, expatiating on the nature of man, remarked that one point of distinction between human beings and the lower animals consisted in capacity for progress. "Man," he exclaimed, "is a progressive being, other creatures are stationary. Take, for example, the ass. Always and everywhere it is the same creature. You have never seen, and you never will see, a more perfect ass than you see at the present moment."—Boston Transcript.

Early Struggles Beneficial.
You can't always tell what's in a lad from knowing his start. Many a poor family has worth in it that only hard problems can develop. NEED FAITH AND CONFIDENCE

Positions Open for Newly Trained Victims of World War Before They Are Ready.

That the rehabilitated World war veteran's success in life depends absolutely upon his faith in himself, is the assertion of Maj. W. F. Lent, chief of the employment service of the United States Veterans' bureau which has in charge the proper training of thousands of disabled service men.

Major Lent, in speaking before the headquarters staff of the American Legion in Indianapolis, said that the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary had as one of their greatest obligations the task of instilling into the hearts of service men an absolute faith and confidence in themselves and their abilities to cope with life's problems.

He said that the government is to have a place for every veteran three or four months before the veteran is ready to take it. "We do not guarantee that a man who has studied to be a factory superintendent will be placed in that position," the major explained, "but he will be placed in the path so that he can obtain such a position through his own initiative and ability."

"We want employers to understand, too, that these men are no longer cripples. They may be physically crippled, but not industrially or vocationally. When we put a man with one arm into a job, he is as well able, and perhaps more so, to do that particular work as is the man with two arms."

AS THE "FLAPPER OF 1776"

Charming Hilda Scheurer Aids in Indianapolis Legion in Advertising Benefit Picture Show.

A white wig and a hoop-skirt are not generally considered as part of the necessary equipment of a "flapper." The flapper pictured here, however, wore these and other colonial trappings most effectively when she wanted to draw the attention of the public to the fact that the Indianapolis American Legion was presenting a historical motion picture at one of the local show houses.

Miss Hilda Scheurer, charming as a "flapper" of 1922, was still more attractive as a "flapper of 1776." The crowds which packed one of the largest and finest motion picture theaters in the Middle West during the entire showing of "Cardigan," a picture of Revolutionary days, which the American Legion is sponsoring, was proof of the fact that Miss Scheurer and her sister "flappers" did a good job of advertising.

It was not the first work Miss Scheurer has done for the American Legion. She is an ardent worker in the Legion Auxiliary.

War Gases for Farm Pests.

Gases which were used with such deadly effect during the World war are now being used for the extermination of farm pests. Gases have been used in the West for the extermination of jack rabbits and gophers. Mustard gas is sprinkled over the paths of rabbits, irritating their feet and causing them to rub them across the face. The poison then quickly becomes effective.

Clock for Airplanes.

The air service of the United States War Department has developed a peculiar kind of clock to be used on airplanes. It is said the clock will keep perfect time in any temperature from 90 degrees below zero to 150 degrees above. Furthermore, the vibration of the plane does not affect the accuracy of the timepiece, which has a movement like a watch and is wound by electricity.

Veteran Had Many Relatives.

In investigating the record of Benjamin F. Taylor, of Crystal Springs, Miss., a World War veteran who died in 1918, the veterans' bureau found that Taylor, exclusive of cousins, was closely related to four per cent of the total population of his home town of 1,306 residents. The stepmother and 15 brothers and sisters are each receiving monthly installments of $1.92.

A hero of the World war, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of getting the government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in a potter's field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

Why Cowboy Wore a Handkerchief.

The handkerchief which encircled every cowboy's neck was intended as a mask for occasional use, not as an article of dress. As the wearer rode in behind a bunch of moving live stock, the still knotted handkerchief's broadest part was pulled up over the wearer's mouth and nose. The mask thus formed eliminated the otherwise suffocating dust and made breathing possible.—P. H. Rollins in "The Cowboy."

Blotting Paper for Cleaning Machines.

The use of blotting paper for cleaning machinery has been common for years. The Germans were among the first to employ this method. It is said to be not only cheaper, but does not soil the machine with fibers and dust like some cloth does. It is not as combustible as some other cleaning materials, and is safer because if caught in the machinery it tears easily and is not as liable to draw the hands of the operator into danger.

VIII. MORE ABOUT AERIALS

If there are several sending stations at various points from your set, it is often a very good plan to run several aerial wires at right angles or radiating as shown in figures 11 and 12, connecting them together and running the lead-in from the point where all join, as shown. Sometimes this principle may be reversed and several lead-ins may be carried from the outer ends of the radiating aerials and joined to form a single lead-in and will bring even better results, figures 13 and 14. These several lead-ins may be connected by means of an anchoring, figure 15, to equalize the waves or currents, or they may be provided with multiple point switches as shown in Figs. 13 and 14. This switch arrangement has the great advantage that you can largely cut out stations you do not wish to hear by using the lead-in towards the station you desire to hear. This will result in the others being fainter or weaker in comparison and they can therefore be more effectively tuned out by your instruments.

Aerials are most peculiar affairs and a little experimenting will enable you to determine the best size, height and type to use. It is well known that wireless waves are directive, or in other words, that they travel more strongly in one direction away from the sending aerial than in others and while this has been largely obliterated in up-to-date stations, yet the ordinary receiving aerial is directive and will get stronger signals if the lead-in is towards the sending station, or is pointed towards it, so to speak. I know of several cases where amateurs failed utterly to hear voices, music, or even

B. R. & P. RESTRAINS STRIKING SHOPMEN FROM INTERFERENCE

Local Attorney Filed Suit In Equity Out of Which Federal Judge Gibson Made Order.

DARE NOT MOLEST

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1.—A temporary restraining order was issued in United States district court yesterday afternoon by Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson against seven labor organizations, every member of each organization and about 100 individuals including officers of the labor bodies, enjoining them from interfering with, molesting, damaging or injuring the repair shops, locomotive shops and other property of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway Company in several counties, and enjoining them further from interfering with the officers and workers of the company.

The order, the first of its kind issued here since the advent of the rail strike, July 1, also enjoins the labor bodies and individuals named or referred to from interfering in any manner with the business of the company and from congregating in and about the shops and other property as well as on the highways leading thereto and in proximity therewith.

Judge Gibson issued the order after a suit in equity had been filed by Attorney W. C. Miller of Clearfield, Pa., and John G. Whitmore, of Ridgway, Pa., for the railways company.

The restraining order is directed to continue in force, by the court, until 10 A. M., August 9 at which time it is returnable. On this date argument will be heard in court on the matter of a preliminary injunction.

At that time the defendants and attorneys are directed to be in the court and show cause, if they have any, why a preliminary injunction shall not issue as asked for in the suit.

By the order each defendant is required to file his answer or other defense in the office of J. Wood Clark, Clerk of Federal district court on or before 20 days after service. Otherwise, it is stipulated, the bill may be taken without any defense.

HARDING PLAN FOR RAIL SETTLEMENT IS MADE PUBLIC

Cincinnati, July 31.—Five specific proposals for the settlement of the railroad strike are contained in President Harding's plan to be submitted to the railroads and unions Tuesday. It was asserted tonight by a union official.

The official, who refused to permit use of his name, stated that he had secured the information from rail union officials.

The five specific proposals, according to him include:

1.—That the employees will abide by the decisions of the United States Labor Board in the future.

2.—In the matter of seniority, the employees who remain on the job during the strike will receive preferential treatment. Men who have been on strike will return with their seniority subject to those rights acquired during the strike by men who remained on the job and that the seniority of the new men will date from that time.

3.—The men will accept the recent wage reductions of the Labor Board pending a further rehearing.

4.—"Farming out" of shop work to be eliminated.

5.—Discussion of the establishment of adjustment boards.

Regarding the matter of adjustment boards, the official stated that the unions desired a national board, while the railroad executives seek either regional or system boards.

Three points will be stressed by the general chairman tomorrow as a basis for settlement—restoration of full seniority, national boards of adjustment and elimination of the farming out of work. They will oppose curtailment or elimination of seniority.

FLAHARTY SAYS K. OF C. KEEPS ALL ITS PLEDGES

Atlantic City, N. J., August 1.—(United Press).—Pointing to the 1921 22 record of the Knights of Columbus as a fulfillment of their pledge, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty in his annual report before the international convention of the K. of C., today struck the keynote of the convention at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City.
He declared that the Knights would make their deeds and not their words the strongest argument for religious amity among Americans of all denominations.
The convention, excelling in numbers the America-First convention of the Knights in San Francisco last year, has brought delegates representing the 800,000 members of the Order from every State in the Union and every Province of Canada, besides from Newfoundland, the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska, Panama and Porto Rico. For the time of the opening of the convention with Solemn High Mass celebrated by the Bishop of Trenton, Monsignor Walsh at St. Nicholas Church, it was estimated that 20,000 K. of C. convention visitors were in Atlantic City.
Governor Edward I. Edwards and Mayor Harry Bader welcomed the convention officially to New Jersey and the convention city.
In his review of the K. of C. annual program Supreme Knight Flaherty declared the K of C. American history of movement was the most effective of peace time patriotic work ever undertaken by the Knights. "I commend most emphatically," he said, "the vicious and insidious propaganda which alleges that the war fund of the Knights of Columbus is being put to use in the historical and Italian welfare work of the organization. Not one penny of the K of C war fund has been devoted to these or any other movement not directly related to the welfare of the American service men."
He declared that the K of C. program to expend the $7,000,000 balance of its war fund on educational and hospitalization work, has progressed to such an extent that the Knights, during the past twelve months, rendered service in 362 hospitals to more than 25,000 men; that they had graduated 70,000 from their evening schools, provided 35,000 free courses in their new national correspondence school at New Haven and paid the way of 500 veterans in and out of the country for another year. The colleges included such institutions as Yale, Georgetown and Notre Dame.
He stated that the new national headquarters of the Knights of Columbus in New Haven had been erected and equipped at a cost of $750,000 and that it contains the largest printing and publishing plant of its kind owned and operated by a fraternal organization. A continuous counter-movement against anti-Catholic propaganda would be maintained from the headquarters he announced.
Flaherty stated that Pope Pius XI had re-affirmed the request of the late Pope Benedict that the Knights maintain welfare work in Rome. Edward I. Hearn, K. of C. European Commissioner, he said, would bring the convention a special message from the Pope. The K of C. supreme council has voted $1,000,000 for the work.

WET AND DRY TOPIC Forty Reported Killed IN LITERARY DIGEST In Wreck Of Paris Train FOR THE THIRD WEEK To Shrine For Cripples

Neither a wet wetness nor a dry dryness" is the descriptive phrase applied by the editor of the New York Globe to the drift of opinion expressed by the first 94,000 votes tabulated in the July 15th issue, in The Digest's poll of the nation on Prohibition. Perhaps the most significant fact about the present tabulation of nearly four times as many votes is that, with growing numbers, the relative strength of the "dry", "moist" and "wet" votes remains much the same. There has been a slight drift to dryness, it is true, throughout the first three polls, but the total change is inconsiderable.
A commentary on Mr. Carlin's claim that, if the poll were confined to labor alone, "the sentiment would be found to be almost unanimous in favor of light wines and beers," is furnished by the results of the first of several polls which The Digest purposes taking in various factories. A poll of the Edison works in New Jersey gives the following results:
For Enforcement 98
For Modification 978
For Repeal 966
This poll was taken under the supervision of Charles A. Edison, who saw to it that the ballots were distributed one to each worker. They were marked secretly and deposited by the individual workers in sealed ballot boxes; later opened by representatives of The Digest. The result showed a proportion of slightly more than twenty to one against the continuation and enforcement of the liquor laws.
Any discussion or consideration of the question of prohibition, such as is involved in the present poll, is opposed by many "dry" advocates, on the grounds that, as Mr. Anderson, of the Anti-Saloon League explained in his detailed statement given space last week, modification would mean an attack on the Constitution of which the Prohibition Amendment is now a part. Samuel Wilson, Assistant State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, in charge of the Department of Law Enforcement expresses this attitude by a very strong statement.

Drifts of Sand.

Wherever dry, loose sand occurs, it is being constantly shifted by the wind. It often buries cultivated lands, buildings and forests. On the shores of Lake Michigan, there are drifts 100 feet deep. Those in Cornwall reach 300 feet in depth, and the drifts of the Gobi desert are 40 miles long and the 900 feet high in some places. On the shores of the Bay of Biscay, the drifting sand travels inland 18 feet a year; in parts of Denmark, 24 feet, and in southern India, 17 yards.

GETTING THE RIGHT MILK

To a lot of folks milk is simply milk. To a lot more there is a need of having the best milk there is, especially to the folks who are convalescing from a wasting sickness. These folks require a milk that is first of all absolutely pure. Next it must contain all the nutriment possible to build up disease-wasted bodies.

In getting our milk you are assured of both of the foregoing. The milk is put through the pasteurization process, which destroys all the germs. Then all the nutrition is kept in the milk just as it comes from the farm and it carries with it the strength you look for.
You are absolutely safe in giving our milk to anyone.

Lewis Issues Call for Miner-Operator Conference President Lays Peace Plan Before Rail Executives Seven Killed When Excursion Train Collides Head-On

RAIL EXECUTIVES BALK AT SENIORITY RIGHTS PROPOSAL AND WILL SUBMIT COUNTER-PROPOSALS LATE IN THE DAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Congress will soon be asked to clothe the Railroad Labor Board with such authority that neither railroad executives nor union labor leaders will dare disregard its mandate, Senators in the confidence of the Administration declared today. This is to be the principle item of a legislative program decided upon by President Harding, his Cabinet and Ben W. Hooper, Chairman of the Railroad Labor Board as a means of preventing the flouting of the Board in the future.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—President Harding today made public his proposal to the railroad managers and striking shopmen for the termination of the rail strike. The disturbing factor is that the seniority rights of the strikers are to be unimpaired. President Harding said that other details of his plan were sent to the railroad executives and the leaders of the shopmen. The President's proposal follows:

- 1.—The railway managers and workmen are to agree to recognize the validity of all decisions of the Railroad Labor Board and faithfully carry out its decisions as contemplated by law.
- 2.—The carriers will withdraw all lawsuits growing out of the strike and all Railroad Labor Board decisions which have been involved in the strike may be taken in the exercise of recognized rights by either party to the Railroad Labor Board for re-hearing.
- 3.—All employees now on strike shall be returned to work and with their former positions, with seniority rights, unimpaired.

The representatives of the organizations expressly agree that there shall be no discrimination by either party against the employees who did not strike.

Washington, D. C., August 1.—President Harding, believing the end of the rail strike is at hand, will make a new move this week to settle the coal strike, a member of the Cabinet told the United Press today. This new move in the coal strike, daily becoming more menacing to the nation, will be discussed at a Cabinet meeting today. Confident that the President's program for settling the shopmen's strike will be formally accepted by rail executives and union leaders meeting in New York and Chicago today, the Cabinet expected to devote its entire session to discussion of the coal situation. The President hopes to bring about a resumption of mining by following the same tactics that he employed in the rail strike during the last week.

New York, August 1.—A counter-proposal to President Harding's suggestion for rail peace was in the hands of a

BITTER FIGHT BEING STAGED IN STATE OF MISSOURI TODAY FOR LEADERSHIP

Senator Reed, Wilson's Foe, Defending His Toga Against Breckenridge Long, Former Member Of Administration.

NATION WATCHES FIGHT

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 1.—(United Press)—The political fate of Senator James A. Reed, long a figure in democratic national politics, was at stake today as Missouri voters went to the polls to select nominees in the state wide primary election.

Breckenridge Long, former third assistant secretary of state during Wilson's administration, and Robert I. Young, of St. Joseph, are Reed's opponents for the democratic senatorial nomination, with the choice apparently lying between Long and Reed.

Throughout the campaign Long has enjoyed the indirect, at least, support of former President Woodrow Wilson. His letters to a St. Louis newspaper and Missouri politicians assailed Reed's record in the Senate and charged in substance that the senior Missouri senator had deserted the democratic party.

They were interpreted throughout the state as endorsing the candidacy of Long, although the latter's name was never directly mentioned.

HERRIN MOB WAS THE LEAST TO BLAME SAY INVESTIGATORS

Strife Breeding Mass Meetings Held After Lewis Wrote "Shovelmen Were Outlaws."

SHERIFF WAS LAX

Pittsburgh, July 31.—The National Coal Association in a statement issued tonight announced completion of a sweeping impartial investigation of the Herrin Massacre, declared that the leaders of the mob were known and that at least 500 members can be arrested whenever the word is given. The association is laying its evidences and findings before the Governor of Illinois.

"Particular emphasis should be laid on the fact that survivors of the massacre can point out the officials of the United Mine Workers who gave the word to take the unarmed officials off the road into the woods and shoot them down," says the announcement. The statement adds:

"The National Coal Association supports the contention that the massacre was the result of a well laid conspiracy and that the riot was not spontaneous."

"Lewis' telegraphic instructions to treat the members of the steam shovel Union as an outlaw organization and common strike breakers was followed on successive days by mass meetings, attack on the mine and the massacre. Lewis and Senator W. J. Sneed, president of the Williamson county sub-district, must assume responsibility for throwing a match into the powder box."

Sheriff to Blame
St. Louis, July 31.—Responsibility for not preventing a demonstration which resulted in the killing of 19 employees by union miners and sympathizers near Herrin, Ill., is placed upon Sheriff Saxton, of Williams county by Colonel Samuel Hunter of the Illinois National Guard in his official report.

Will Defend Union Men
Springfield, July 31.—The Illinois branch of the United Mine Workers will finance and direct the defense of every union miner brought to trial for the Herrin massacre, Frank Farrington announced today.

"The very magnitude and sternness of the agitation for the punishment of those involved creates danger for innocent men," says a statement issued by Farrington this afternoon.

HISTORY AS IT IS—NOT WRITTEN

Jury Commissioner Harry Conner, of URBESIDE, was in town today, boosting for the Cherry Tree Centennial which starts Thursday and continues the remainder of the week. Harry says he has a personal interest in this historic celebration because he remembers, as a boy, when he and Charley Patrick stood on the river bank at Burnside and threw stones at Billy Penn as he poled his canoe past the place on his way to Cherry Tree to dicker with the Indians when he was arranging to purchase Penn's Woods. Harry says he can prove his statement by Comrade John Stauffer, who interfered and told the boys they should be more civil to strangers.

Mrs. Cyrus Mickles of Curwensville left today for Orbinsonia to spend some time with friends there.

PITTSBURGH COAL PRODUCERS PROMPTLY REJECT INVITATION OF LEWIS TO MEET AT CLEVELAND TO NEGOTIATE MONDAY

Reiterate Their Position That They Will Not Be A Party To A Four-State Agreement Or Take Any Part In Conference Call On That Basis

CONCILIATORY MOOD IS NOW BLOCKED

PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 1.—The scale committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers Association today rejected John L. Lewis' invitation for a joint conference of miners and operators in Cleveland next Monday.

R. W. Gardiner, Commissioner of the Association, wired Lewis that the Pittsburgh operators were willing to negotiate a wage scale for mines in the Pittsburgh district but would not be a party to a four-state joint conference.

Pittsburgh, Pa., August 1.—Although repeatedly denying it will become a member of a four-state conference, the Pittsburgh Coal Association today called a meeting for the purpose of discussing President Lewis' invitation to attend such a conference in Cleveland next Monday.

Indianapolis, Indiana, August 1.—Assurances that a majority of the mine operators in the central bituminous field would attend the interstate wage conference with coal strike leaders at Cleveland next Monday were given to Governor McCray today by Harold Henderson, representing the United Mine Workers.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 1.—John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, today issued an invitation to the coal operators of the central competitive field to attend a conference to be held in Cleveland Monday, August 7th. In calling the conference Lewis declared he was actuated by a desire to protect the public welfare and an impelling necessity for early adjudication of the issues involved in the bituminous and anthracite coal fields. The telegram sent to the interests in the central competitive field today follows:

In behalf of the United Mine Workers of America I am herewith inviting the coal operators of the central competitive field to meet in joint interstate conference at the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland, Ohio, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., Monday, August 7th, 1922, for the purpose of negotiating a basic wage agreement designed to terminate the present coal strike. I express the sincere hope that the interests represented by you will find it possible to participate in the joint negotiations.

(Signed) JOHN L. LEWIS, President, U. M. W. of A.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF "HENRY" OWNER ENOUGH TO MAKE MAYOR WEEP

His Old Boat Had No Lamps, A 1920 License Tag, And A Record For "Getting By" That Takes The Barlow.

GOT FINE CHARGED, TOO!

This automobile game and the attempt to enforce the motor traffic law develops some queer birds and queer happenings hereabouts. One night last week Chief of Police McMullen "lamped" an ancient Ford coming rattling down Second street. There wasn't a single ray of light from the machine and the Chief stepped out into the street and promptly flagged the driver. When he pulled up his rickety old tin steed the Chief asked where his lights were. "The darned things played out more'n a year ago," said the driver. Looking about the decrepit old vehicle the Chief discovered the absence of a license tag from the front of the machine. When asked where his license tag was the driver replied that the darn thing had been lost. Asked why he didn't have it more securely fastened he replied that he supposed it was fastened alright when it was first put on, but three years of rattling over these roads would shake pretty near everything loose about a Ford.

With that the Chief gave the rear license plate the once over and was more than surprised to find a better

ed 1920 tag hanging to the tail end by one ear, so to speak. "Haven't you had a new license tag since 1920," remarked the Chief. "Nope," replied the auto owner: "haven't had money enough since to get one, so had to make the old one do."

The driver was haled before Burgess Kittelberger and when placed on the carpet repeated his story to the Burgess. Asked if he didn't know it was a violation of the motor traffic law to drive a car in 1922 under a 1920 license, the impetuous one replied "yeap" he supposed it was, but what's a feller gone to do when he has no coin with which to get another one; besides I run the dern thing all last year and no body cut up any high jinks about it."

The Mayor said well we'll have to fine you $10 and costs, $12.50 in all. "Can't pay it," replied the Jehu; "haven't any money; you'll have to take the car."

"Nothing doing on that stuff," replied the Burgess: "you can't wish that old thing on us, we'll trust you to the fine and lend you a red lantern off the street to get that thing out of town, and don't you ever dare to bring it back here." Firing up his pipe and promising to pay the fine some day the fellow with his ancient license plate and more ancient Henry set sail for his Lawrence township home.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

STARS ON MEMORIAL TREES

Living Monuments to 308 of Missouri's Hero Dead Line the Famous King's Highway.

Living monuments, sheltering those who come their way, always serving, 308 pleasant shade trees along King's highway in St. Louis stand as a monument to 308 Missouri lads who gave their lives during the World war.

In Memory of Hero Dead.

Each tree bears a gold star. A hero's name, the name of the unit and branch of service to which he was attached are engraved on each star. The trees were planted on Arbor Day by members of the American Legion. Many of the mothers of the men in whose memory the trees stand helped place the gold stars on the European sycamores, sweet gums and green oaks that line either side of the parkway.

RANKING WEST POINT CADET

Charles Barrett, Former "Buck" Private, Honor Man of Class of 1922 at Great Academy.

From a "buck private in the rear rank" in 1917 to the highest ranking cadet at West Point is the record of Charles J. Barrett, "honor man" of the 1922 class at the military academy.

Barrett went to France as a member of the 20th division. With 181 other "hand picked" soldiers he was chosen to take the examination for West Point. He took high honors.

At the academy he was made regimental commander, editor of the school magazine and chairman of the board of governors. Despite his other activities, he has found time to do enough studying during his four years to land him at the head of his class.

MARSHAL FOCH HAD THE TIME

Famous French Fighter Aids Blind War Victim Seeking Wounded Soldiers' Institute.

The splendid spirit of Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France, who won the hearts of the American people when he taught this country as the guest of the American Legion last year is illustrated by a story from Paris.

A blind veteran tapped his way along the sidewalk. "Excuse me, and I am not quite sure of the way."

"You are close to it now; let me take you," came the reply.

Arriving at the door of the institute the guide said to the junior: "Kindly take this man to the section for the blind."

"Take him yourself," growled the junior. "Under the archway on the other side of the courtyard."

The civilian did take the veteran but on the way out he addressed the junior again.

"Could you not be a little more obliging to the blind?" he asked gently.

"There are too many and I haven't the time," was the snuffy response.

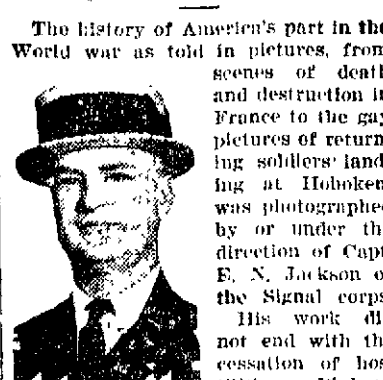

"It seems to me that it is your duty to help them," said the other. "I can find time—and I am Marshal Foch."

Plants 530 Memorial Trees. Memorial trees for 530 veterans who gave their lives in the World war have been planted by the Washington (D. C.) post of the American Legion. As a part of the Memorial day exercises each year wreaths made up of the names of the fallen are placed on a tree.

River's Generous Mouth. The mouth of the River Nile is 157 miles wide between the extreme points on the Mediterranean coast.

MADE WORLD WAR PICTURES

Capt. E. N. Jackson of Signal Corps Photographed Important Events During Conflict.

The history of America's part in the World war as told in pictures, from scenes of death and destruction in France to the gay pictures of returning soldiers landing at Hoboken, was photographed by or under the direction of Capt. E. N. Jackson of the Signal Corps.

His work did not end with the cessation of hostilities. Perhaps his was the most interesting role played by any member of the A. E. F. after the armistice. When President Wilson went to France the story of his activities was photographed by Captain Jackson. Whether the president shook hands with a European soldier, signed an important paper or had dinner with a king, Captain Jackson was there with his camera.

Today, the official photographs taken by Captain Jackson and his staff are to be found in galleries, libraries, public buildings and private homes in every part of the United States. Mr. Jackson, no longer a captain, is now editing the shutter as one of the staff photographers of the New York Daily News. He spends his spare time at the clubhouse of the American Legion, Signal post No. 343, in New York city.

GREETINGS TO THE TOMMIES

Vice Commander Jackson Carried Commander MacNider's Message to the British Legion.

The first man to cross the Atlantic ocean with a message from American World war service men exclusively to British Tommies. That man is H. Nelson Jackson of Burlington Vt., one of the national vice commanders of the American Legion who recently represented the Legion at an annual meeting of the British Legion, made up of World war service men of the British Isles.

During the war Mr. Jackson served in the Medical corps and for gallantry in action was decorated with the D. S. C., Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor of France. He was promoted through the various ranks from first lieutenant to lieutenant colonel.

The greetings which Mr. Jackson presented to the British Legion in behalf of Commander Harford MacNider declared that: "No generation of our nation have been so closely bound together. Through the coming years it must be our mutual duty to so strengthen and cement these ties that from this great undertaking may come peace to all the world."

SPENT MONTHS IN AN ASYLUM

New Zealand Government Is Probing Case of Subject Imprisoned at Elgin, Ill.

The New Zealand government is investigating the case of Robert M. Thompson of Christchurch, World war veteran, who has just returned to his home in New Zealand, after having spent several months in the asylum for the insane at Elgin, Ill.

Thompson came to the United States after losing his health shattered in the war. Acting on the advice of the Canadian government, which looks after New Zealand military pensioners in America, he called at the office of the veterans' bureau in Chicago.

A week after Thompson first called at the office of the bureau, he says that he found himself a regular inmate in the asylum at Elgin, receiving very poor food and indifferent treatment.

He finally succeeded in smuggling letters out to a former college friend who took the matter up with the asylum authorities. His release was arranged on the condition that he leave the United States immediately.

Carrying On With the American Legion

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

No matter what you print these as you find some fellow it pleases, while some other fellows can't see it that way. Here's a fellow who was not only pleased but wants to show his appreciation by rushing into print:—

Clearfield, July 31, 1922

Dear Skinny: I very much approve your writeup concerning the Automobile controversy of Chester Hill Borough, and I think it would be more to the credit of the Clearfield and Philipsburg Commercial Clubs if they would raise a fund to help care for the poor unfortunate people who are run down by speeding automobiles, than it is to use their funds to defend reckless, speeding, lawbreaking automobile drivers. Could you induce the Mayor of Chester Hill to move to Clearfield, as I would be pleased to vote for him Chief Law Enforcer for Clearfield.

(Signed)—A Clearfield Citizen, who believes that the fellow who walks should not have to run as fast as our Champion, Mr. Torrence, in order to cross our streets in safety.

And while on this subject of automobile vs. pedestrian, as some people would have it, another automobile driver interested in the controversy asks that the following be given space as being helpful and conducive to greater safety on the public highways:

Pedestrians along country roads and those who walk in the streets at night in preference to using the sidewalks can contribute materially toward the reduction of automobile accidents by walking on the left side of the road, facing oncoming traffic, according to Daj H. Lewis, acting executive chairman of the American Automobile Association.

"Curtesy on the part of the automobile driver demands the use of dimmed lights at night," said Mr. Lewis, "and this factor while it contributes to the safety of passing motorists, makes it exceedingly difficult for the automobile driver to see a pedestrian walking along the edge of the road in the same direction." This difficulty is increased if the pedestrian happens to be wearing dark clothing. The result is that the driver is practically on top of the pedestrian before the latter becomes visible.

"Walking on the left hand side of the road is just as good for the pedestrian and enables him to see the approaching automobile in time to step aside if the motorist does not see him in time to avert it."

"The pedestrian should remember that the rules of the road require the motorist to keep to the right and should contribute to that factor of safety which best enables him to escape the oncoming car and especially the occasional speed fiend or 'Riverbooby' who cares nothing for consequences and speeds regardless of the rights of others, for it has been truly said that 'if you were in the right or not does not matter after you are in the hands of the undertakers.'"

ROOSEVELT NEVER SWORE

It has been said, less in jest, perhaps, than in earnest, that not even lying is an easier habit to acquire than swearing. George Washington could not stoop to the one but he did stoop to the other. Whether a majority of men swear or not there is no way of telling. But it is certain that there are men who have not used profane language at some time or other, while millions are addicted to it habitually.

It is of no little interest, therefore, to learn from what apparently unanswerable authority that robust as he was, and given to emphatic language beyond perhaps any other person of his day and generation, Theodore Roosevelt loathed and never uttered profanity. A recent writer brought this aspect of the great Rough Rider's personality to the public attention by telling an anecdote in which Colonel Roosevelt was represented as "cussing" vigorously. This was so violent in conflict with the deportment of the real Roosevelt that a number of his friends immediately protested, Mark Sullivan leading off.

Lawrence F. Abbott, Gifford Pinchot, Henry Cabot Lodge, and other close friends of the colonel's corroborate Mr. Sullivan unqualifiedly, denying that he ever used a profane word, even under what ordinary men would deem a great provocation. On one occasion, out in the Bad Lands of Dakota, he went so far as to brave being shot by rebuking Hell Roarin' Bill Jones in an insulting manner for that desperado's blasphemous habits.

The only way in which the former president can be conceived or believed ever to have sworn is the same way (Mr. Abbott says) in which Bishop Phillips Brooks once swore. The bishop was fishing and hooked a big trout, then lost it after playing it half an hour, and when his guide involuntarily exclaimed, "That's a damned shame," the bishop said, "You're quite right, John." The country will think none the less of "Teddy" because he was clean of speech. If there could be stronger proof than he that profanity is neither a mark of manliness nor a requisite of emphasis, we cannot imagine what it is. The revelation of the Rooseveltian disgust for the practice is worth a place not merely in his biographies but in the news of the day.

ADDRESS CAREFULLY

There is in this country no public undertaking more vital than the United States post office. This great organization reaches daily into our lives, and millions of citizens throughout the land share in its activities every hour. We have come to accept the workings of this great machine as complacently as we accept the changing seasons. We look upon it as an impersonal thing in the operation of which the individual citizen plays no part, wholly forgetting the fact that the most trivial letter or postcard message gets as much attention from postal employees as does the letter which conveys the most important tidings. We write a letter and drop it absent-mindedly into the box without a question as to whether it will get to its destination.

There can't be anything impersonal in an organization like that. It is our attitude that is impersonal and needs attention. One moment's reflection on how elaborate and vast our postal system is would make us marvel at its efficiency. Following that moment's reflection we should dictate another one to the thought of how much could be accomplished if those of us who write letters were more careful in directing them.

From a recent statement of the United States post office we learn that 20,000,000 letters go astray each year and reach the dead letter office. In addition to this it must be remembered that millions of letters wrongly addressed finally reach their destination through the patience and ingenuity of postal employees. The sum total of useless work which people make for the department by addressing their letters carelessly involves incredible outlay of time and energy of post office staffs. And it costs the citizens a heap of money.

By giving a little more personal attention to the part he plays in it as sender of letters or packages, the individual can do a great deal to make this organization more efficient—the most vital public undertaking in our country today.

Europe would be a great place if there were any truth in the popular notion that the sadder men are the wiser there become.

ROOSEVELT NEVER SWORE

It has been said, less in jest, perhaps, than in earnest, that not even lying is an easier habit to acquire than swearing. George Washington could not stoop to the one but he did stoop to the other. Whether a majority of men swear or not there is no way of telling. But it is certain that there are few men who have not used profane language at some time or other, while millions are addicted to it habitually.

It is of no little interest, therefore, to learn from what apparently unanswerable authority that robust as he was and given to emphatic language beyond perhaps any other person of his day and generation, Theodore Roosevelt loathed and never uttered profanity. A recent writer brought this aspect of the great Rough Rider's personality to the public attention by telling an anecdote in which Colonel Roosevelt was represented as "cussing" vigorously. This was so violent in conflict with the department of the real Roosevelt that a number of his friends immediately protested, Mark Sullivan leading off.

Lawrence F. Abbott, Gifford Pinchot, Henry Cabot Lodge, and other close friends of the colonel's corroborate Mr. Sullivan unqualifiedly, denying that he ever used a profane word even under what ordinary men would deem a great provocation. On one occasion, out in the Bad Lands of Dakota, he went so far as to brave being shot by rebuking Hell Roaring Bill Jones in an insulting manner for that desperado's blasphemous habits.

The only way in which the former president can be conceived or believed ever to have sworn is the same way. (Mr. Abbott says) in which Bishop Philipps Brooks once swore. The bishop was fishing and hooked a big trout, then lost it after playing it half an hour, and when his guide involuntarily exclaimed, "That's a damned shame," the bishop said, "You're quite right, John." The country will think none the less of "Teddy" because he was clean of speech. If there could be stronger proof than he that profanity is neither a mark of manliness nor a requisite of emphasis, we cannot imagine what it is. The revelation of the Rooseveltian disgust for the practice is worth a place not merely in his biographies but in the laws of the day.

ADDRESS CAREFULLY

There is in this country no public undertaking more vital than the United States post office. This great organization reaches daily into our lives, and millions of citizens throughout the land share in its activities every hour.

We have come to accept the workings of this great machine as complacently as we accept the changing seasons. We look upon it as an impersonal thing in the operation of which the individual citizen plays no part, wholly forgetful of the fact that the most trivial letter or postcard message gets as much attention from postal employees as does the letter which conveys the most important tidings. We write a letter and drop it absent-mindedly into the box without a question as to whether it will get to its destination.

There can't be anything impersonal in an organization like that. It is our attitude that is impersonal and needs attention. One moment's reflection on how elaborate and vast our postal system is would make us marvel at its efficiency. Following that moment's reflection we should dictate promptly due to the thought of how much could be accomplished if those of us who write letters were more careful in directing them.

From a recent statement of the United States post office we learn that 20,000,000 letters go astray each year and reveal the dead letter office. In addition to this it must be remembered that millions of letters wrongly addressed finally reach their destination through the patience and ingenuity of postal employees. The sum total of useless work which people make for the department by addressing their letters carelessly involves incredible outlay of time and energy of post office staffs. And it costs the citizens a heap of money.

By giving a little more personal attention to the part he plays in it as sender of letters or packages, the individual can do a great deal to make this organization more efficient—the most vital public undertaking in our country today.

Europe would be a great place if there were any truth in the popular notion that the sadder men are the wiser they become.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO PREVENT
SPREAD OF EUROPEAN CORN BORER

European Corn Borer in Various Stages and Its Work.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Special efforts to prevent the European corn borer from spreading to the corn belt, which it now threatens to do from the southern shore of Lake Erie, will be made this season by the United States Department of Agriculture. The most important single measure will be the rigid enforcement of federal quarantine regulations by the federal horticultural board of the department, in co-operation with the Canadian government and the various states where the pest now exists. This will prevent other infestations of the insect from coming into the United States and will go a long way toward keeping the borer from being carried to other parts of the country.

The bureau of entomology of the department has prepared its plans for investigating the insect, which was discovered in this country during 1917, with a view to applying and amplifying methods of controlling it. The slight infestations along the lake shore, it is believed, will not cause serious injury to corn there immediately, giving ample time for a careful study of the insect and its behavior in this new environment before actual commercial damage is done. For this purpose the bureau will establish immediately a number of entomologists at Sandusky, Ohio.

May Have Come From Canada.

The infestation on Lake Erie, it is believed, originated in the province of Ontario, Canada, where a severe infestation has been present for several years. Favorable winds during the flight season of the moth in the summer of 1921 are supposed to have compelled the adult insects to fly across the lake to the American side, where they became established along almost the entire southern shore. Records of the weather bureau indicate that for the first time in five or six years the winds prevailing then blew from the north or northwest for several days at a time. It is not thought, therefore, that this condition will prevail again for several years, and other moths be blown over.

In order to watch this phase of the matter, however, the bureau of entomology will request permission of the lighthouse service to station observers during the flight season at the powerful lights maintained along the southern shore. They will ascertain, if possible, whether moths are attracted to the lights from the other side.

The federal quarantine includes 144 cities and towns in Massachusetts, three in Michigan, 12 in New Hampshire, 115 in New York, 42 in Ohio, and 13 in Pennsylvania, and prohibits the shipment of corn and broom corn, including all parts of the stalk, cut flowers or cut plants of chrysanthemum, aster, cosmos, zinnia, hollyhock, and cut flowers or entire plants of gladiolus and dahlias, except the bulbs, to other states throughout the year. The ban applies to other products for the period between June 1 and December 31, in the New England territory. The prohibition applies to corn and broom corn, including all parts of the stalk, all sorghums and sudan grass from infested areas in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan throughout the year. No restrictions are placed on the interstate movement of clean shelled corn and clean seed of broom corn.

Control Practices Recommended.
To control the corn borer on the farm, the department recommends the following practices:

1. Burn, or otherwise destroy, before May 1 of each year, all cornstalks, corn cobs, corn stubble, vegetable, field and flower crop remnants, weeds and large-stemmed grasses of the previous year.
2. Keep cultivated fields, fence rows, field borders, roadsides and such places free from large weeds or large-stemmed grasses.
3. Cut corn close to the ground.
4. Cut and remove sweet corn fodder from the field as soon as the ears are harvested. Feed direct to live stock or place in silo.
5. Cut and remove field corn from the field as soon as the ears are mature. Feed the stalks to live stock as soon as possible and burn or otherwise dispose of the uneaten parts before May 1 following. Shred or cut the fodder to increase its consumption.
6. Plow under thoroughly, in the fall, all infested cornstalks, corn stubble, other crop remnants, weeds and similar material which it is impractical to destroy in any other manner. When necessary to adopt this practice an attempt should be made to plow under all the material to a depth of at least 6 inches.
7. Plant small areas of early sweet corn to act as a trap crop, adjacent to fields intended for field corn or late sweet corn. Feed, or otherwise destroy, this early sweet corn, as soon as the ears are harvested, or preferably just before that period, if the grower is willing to sacrifice the ears. Such plantings, where not destroyed at the proper time, constitute a menace to later corn.

8. Limit the size of cornfields to areas that can be kept free of weeds.

9. Do not plant corn within 50 feet of beets, beans, celery, spinach, rhubarb, or flowering plants intended for sale.

10. Do not throw the uneaten parts of cornstalks used as feed or bedding into the manure pile unless this material is worked into piles containing enough fresh horse manure to produce heating.

11. Do not transport outside of the infested area, any of the plants, or plant products, listed in Federal Quarantine No. 43.

12. Do not transport any living stages of the European corn-borer outside of the infested areas.

13. Do not place in swill container any sweet corn ears or portions thereof or discarded portions of celery, beets, beans, rhubarb, and spinach when this material is suspected of containing the borer.

14. Do not dump cornstalks, or other plant refuse from the vegetable and flower garden on public dumps nor on the edge or flood level of brooks, rivers, and other bodies of water.

15. Do not attempt to circumvent the quarantine regulations. The penalty is severe.

16. Do not mix products grown within the infested area with those grown outside the infested area.

17. Do not label packages containing flowers or other products with misleading statements of contents.

18. Do not pack produce in boxes or other containers until all old tags and permits have been removed.

19. Do not feel angry if products are confiscated at border lines for violation of quarantine regulations. Such action is the most lenient that may be taken under the law.

MOLESKINS VALUABLE
SOLD THROUGH POOLSBoys and Girls Have Formed
Clubs for Trapping.Taught Approved Methods by Extension
Workers and Representatives
of Biological Survey—Prizes
for Gophers.

Moleskins, which brought little or nothing in the ordinary fur markets, have been successfully pooled and sold in Washington and Oregon through farm bureau organizations. Boys and girls in many communities have formed clubs for trapping moles. Through the co-operative work of the extension agents and representatives of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, they have been taught approved methods of trapping and skinning the moles.

Two hundred and twenty mole pelts were sold in Benton county, Ore., for boys and girls trappers. Linn county, Ore., reports three communities which offered 10 cents each for moles and pocket gophers and an additional prize for the three children killing the most pests. One community reports $3 moles killed in this way.

Tillamook county, Ore., was divided into four districts, and $50 purses were allotted to each district for first, second, and third prizes. The county paid a 5-cent bounty on both moles and pocket gophers. The moleskins were stored in the county agent's office until a salable amount was collected. They were then sold to the highest bidder. All money received for the skins was returned to the trappers.

OVERCOME PLANT DISEASES

Practical Plan to Allow Land to Re-
main Idle or Use Crop Immune
to Ailment.

There are several diseases of vegetables which live over in the garden soil from one year to the next, and if the same crop is planted in the same soil year after year it will be but a short time until the crop will prove a loss. These are mostly fungous and bacterial diseases and the only practical way to overcome them is to allow the land to lie idle for two or three years or to plant a crop which is immune to the disease.

BOXER WHO SINGS AND READS

W. H. Littleton, an Ex-Geb, One of
Many Legion Sluggers to Carry
Away Honors.

A boxer who slugs baritone and reads classical literature is about as rare as a fish in a barrel. William Harrison, better known as "Happy" Littleton, southern middle-weight champion boxer, has an unusually good baritone voice which he uses when the boys get together to have a little harmony. A boxer who peruses the classics might be expected to be a "tea hound," and it is rumored that Littleton has been known to balance the china cup on his knee.

But the fact that Littleton can sing, read and drink tea doesn't keep him from being a good boxer. He recently wrecked the knuckles on both his hands on Billy Shado's head when the two met in New Orleans. He won the decision in that match just as he had in others with Joe Chap, Battling Ortega, Joe Borrell and Jack Bloodfield. Littleton, an ex-gob, is one of the many American Legion boxers who have carried away the laurels in bouts in every section of the country.

INTERESTED IN LEGION WORK

Maj. Gen. John Lejeune Accepts Invitation to Attend Annual Convention in New Orleans.

In accepting the invitation of the American Legion to attend the fourth annual convention of the legion in New Orleans, La., in October, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States marine corps, expressed his appreciation of the legion, and his interest in its activities.

"Louisiana is my native state, and for that reason, as well as on account of my interest in the American Legion, it will be a privilege for me to be with you at the convention," General Lejeune said.

The military career of the marine corps leader embraces service in the Spanish-American and World wars. He came into greatest prominence when he commanded the Fourth brigade of marines of the Second division, which saw service at St. Mihiel, Mont Blanc ridge, the Meuse-Argonne and in the Rhine country.

Governor Signs Bonus Bill.
Governor Cox of Massachusetts has signed a bill which makes more than 400 additional World war veterans eligible for the $100 state bonus. The bill provides that any man who was a resident of the state within the year preceding his enlistment is eligible for the bonus, or if the man's parents were in the state a year prior to his enlistment, although he may have been in another state, he can collect.

About to Arrest Mme. Joffre.
While Marshal Joffre of France was being received at the Pennsylvania station in New York city by a group of American Legion officials and members of the mayor's reception committee, Mme. Joffre went upstairs to wait for the hero of the French people. While Mme. Joffre waited, one of New York's "finest" told her to "move on." He was about to take action because his order was ignored when a rescue party headed by General Bullard arrived and escorted Mme. Joffre to her waiting automobile.

Aids Are Needed.
There is urgent need at hospitals of the veterans' bureau for reconstruction aides in physiotherapy and occupational therapy in connection with the rehabilitation of disabled veterans of the World war, according to an announcement made by the United States civil service commission. Applicants for these positions are not required to report for written examinations, but are rated upon the subjects of education, training experience and physical ability. Information may be obtained from the U. S. civil service commission, Washington, D. C.

Carrying-On With the American Legion

Rumors that state prison labor is being used to compete with private industrial concerns has caused an investigation by the Senate (Wash.) American Legion.

A Philadelphia concern is organizing an expedition to salvage the $5,000,000 known to have been on board the Lusitania when the vessel was sunk by a German torpedo.

Leonard T. Paul, of Grinnell college, Ia., with a leg scarred by shrapnel wounds, recently broke 100 and 200-yard dash records in an intercollegiate track meet held in Chicago.

A memorial highway extending east and west across Virginia has been suggested by the Virginia American Legion as a memorial to the state's World war heroes.

No one disputes the charm of colored batistes, checked gingham, striped voiles and dimities, flowered crepes and tissue, gingham used in the newest lingerie. Ruffles and pipings are used for trimmings but not a superabundance of lace.

Shark Enjoyed "Scratching."
A diver, working off the Australian coast, had an odd adventure. A 12-foot shark came nosing up to him, and as its rough hide might have damaged his suit, he held the point of his steel "jumper" toward the intruder. This seemed to be just what the shark wanted, and he rubbed himself against it as a pig does against a stick when he is being scratched. He kept the diver at work for half an hour, and at last made off.

Origin of the Name "Old Hickory."
Gen. Andrew Jackson first was called "Tough" then "Tough as Hickory," and lastly "Old Hickory." Another story is that in 1813, when engaged in war with the Creek Indians, he felt short of supplies, and fed his men on hickory nuts.

The Urge of Success.
Once the task of success gets you, there is born an eternal urge unsatisfied with inferior things. It compels success. The problems that discourage weaklings put fire into the blood and make men irresistible. The neighbors wonder how it all happens. It doesn't happen. It's just nature asserting herself and worthy youth coming into his own.—Exchange.

Beautiful Papuan Villages.
Some of the Papuan communities are literally "villages beautiful." They are idyllic, with streets sandaled and planted with ornamental shrubs. In the center are little plazas or "palaver spots" where conferences are held. These are paved with flat stones beside which are erected stone pillars to serve as backrests.

Kerchief Linen

Handkerchief linen, and especially pink handkerchief linen, is having a sudden vogue for midsummer wear. It is sheer and cool and lends itself to many different styles.

Before Them.

An English lecturer, expatiating on the nature of man, remarked that one point of distinction between human beings and the lower animals consisted in capacity for progress. "Man," he exclaimed, "is a progressive being, other creatures are stationary. Take, for example, the ass. Always and everywhere it is the same creature. You have never seen, and you never will see, a more perfect ass than you see at the present moment."—Boston Transcript.

Early Struggles Beneficial.
You can't always tell what's in a lad from knowing his start. Many a poor family has worth in it that only hard problems can develop. NEED FAITH AND CONFIDENCE

Positions Open for Newly Trained Victims of World War Before They Are Ready.

That the rehabilitated World war veteran's success in life depends absolutely upon his faith in himself, is the assertion of Maj. W. F. Lent, chief of the employment service of the United States Veterans' bureau which has in charge the proper training of thousands of disabled service men.

Major Lent, in speaking before the headquarters staff of the American Legion in Indianapolis, said that the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary had as one of their greatest obligations the task of instilling into the hearts of service men an absolute faith and confidence in themselves and their abilities to cope with life's problems.

He said that the government is to have a place for every veteran three or four months before the veteran is ready to take it. "We do not guarantee that a man who has studied to be a factory superintendent will be placed in that position," the major explained, "but he will be placed in the path so that he can obtain such a position through his own initiative and ability."

"We want employers to understand, too, that these men are no longer cripples. They may be physically crippled, but not industrially or vocationally. When we put a man with one arm into a job, he is as well able, and perhaps more so, to do that particular work as is the man with two arms."

AS THE "FLAPPER OF 1776"

Charming Hilda Scheurer Aids in Indianapolis Legion in Advertising Benefit Picture Show.

A white wig and a hoop-skirt are not generally considered as part of the necessary equipment of a "flapper." The flapper pictured here, however, wore these and other colonial trappings most effectively when she wanted to draw the attention of the public to the fact that the Indianapolis American Legion was presenting a historical motion picture at one of the local show houses.

Miss Hilda Scheurer, charming as a "flapper" of 1922, was still more attractive as a "flapper of 1776." The crowds which packed one of the largest and finest motion picture theaters in the Middle West during the entire showing of "Cardigan," a picture of Revolutionary days, which the American Legion is sponsoring, was proof of the fact that Miss Scheurer and her sister "flappers" did a good job of advertising.

It was not the first work Miss Scheurer has done for the American Legion. She is an ardent worker in the Legion Auxiliary.

Gases which were used with such deadly effect during the World war are now being used for the extermination of farm pests. Gases have been used in the West for the extermination of jack rabbits and gophers. Mustard gas is sprinkled over the paths of rabbits, irritating their feet and causing them to rub them across the face. The poison then quickly becomes effective.

Clock for Airplanes.

The air service of the United States War Department has developed a peculiar kind of clock to be used on airplanes. It is said the clock will keep perfect time in any temperature from 90 degrees below zero to 150 degrees above. Furthermore, the vibration of the plane does not affect the accuracy of the timepiece, which has a movement like a watch and is wound by electricity.

Veteran Had Many Relatives.

In investigating the record of Benjamin F. Taylor, of Crystal Springs, Miss., a World war veteran who died in 1918, the veterans' bureau found that Taylor, exclusive of cousins, was closely related to four per cent of the total population of his home town of 1,306 residents. The stepmother and 15 brothers and sisters are each receiving monthly installments of $1.92.

On a $10,000 wagon six American Legionnaires from Dallas, Tex., started to walk from Dallas to New York in 300 days. One got married on the way and three fell by the wayside. Only two reached the last lap of the journey.

A hero of the World war, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of getting the government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in a potter's field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

Why Cowboy Wore a Handkerchief.

The handkerchief which encircled every cowboy's neck was intended as a mask for occasional use, not as an article of dress. As the wearer rode in behind a bunch of moving live stock, the still knotted handkerchief's broadest part was pulled up over the wearer's mouth and nose. The mask thus formed eliminated the otherwise suffocating dust and made breathing possible.—P. H. Rollins in "The Cowboy."

Blotting Paper for Cleaning Machines.

The use of blotting paper for cleaning machinery has been common for years. The Germans were among the first to employ this method. It is said to be not only cheaper, but does not soil the machine with fibers and dust like some cloth does. It is not as combustible as some other cleaning materials, and is safer because if caught in the machinery it tears easily and is not as liable to draw the hands of the operator into danger.

THE HOME RADIO How to Make and Use It By A. HYATT VERRILL

VIII. MORE ABOUT AERIALS

If there are several sending stations at various points from your set, it is often a very good plan to run several aerial wires at right angles or radiating as shown in figures 11 and 12, connecting them together and running the lead-in from the point where all join, as shown. Sometimes this principle may be reversed and several lead-ins may be carried from the outer ends of the radiating aerials and joined to form a single lead-in and will bring even better results, figures 13 and 14. These several lead-ins may be connected by means of an anchoring, figure 15, to equalize the waves or currents, or they may be provided with multiple point switches as shown in Figs. 13 and 14. This switch arrangement has the great advantage that you can largely cut out stations you do not wish to hear by using the lead-in towards the station you desire to hear. This will result in the others being fainter or weaker in comparison and they can therefore be more effectively tuned out by your instruments.

Aerials are most peculiar affairs and a little experimenting will enable you to determine the best size, height and type to use. It is well known that wireless waves are directive, or in other words, that they travel more strongly in one direction away from the sending aerial than in others and while this has been largely obliterated in up-to-date stations, yet the ordinary receiving aerial is directive and will get stronger signals if the lead-in is towards the sending station, or is pointed towards it, so to speak. I know of several cases where amateurs failed utterly to hear voices, music, or even connection with tip-top and due wire and wrap it with adhesive tape. Where no pipe is available carry the ground wire to a sheet of copper, an old copper boiler or a copper tank or bush, filled with charcoal and buried at least five feet under the surface of the earth. A lightning rod or fire escape will sometimes make a very good ground. But it is not so much what you use for a ground as how you make the connections are and how well the object is grounded. Do not use an electric light or telephone, telegraph or door bell wire for a ground. To repeat, be careful of your connections and sure of your grounding.

B. R. & P. RESTRAINS STRIKING SHOPMEN FROM INTERFERENCE

Local Attorney Filed Suit In Equity Out of Which Federal Judge Gibson Made Order.

DARE NOT MOLEST

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1.—A temporary restraining order was issued in United States district court yesterday afternoon by Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson against seven labor organizations, every member of each organization and about 100 individuals including officers of the labor bodies, enjoining them from interfering with, molesting, damaging or injuring the repair shops, locomotive shops and other property of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway Company in several counties, and enjoining them further from interfering with the officers and workers of the company.

The order, the first of its kind issued here since the advent of the rail strike, July 1, also enjoins the labor bodies and individuals named or referred to from interfering in any manner with the business of the company and from congregating in and about the shops and other property as well as on the highways leading thereto and in proximity therewith.

Judge Gibson issued the order after a suit in equity had been filed by Attorney W. C. Miller of Clearfield, Pa., and John G. Whitmore, of Ridgway, Pa., for the railways company.

The restraining order is directed to continue in force, by the court, until 10 A. M., August 9 at which time it is returnable. On this date argument will be heard in court on the matter of a preliminary injunction.

At that time the defendants and attorneys are directed to be in the court and show cause, if they have any, why a preliminary injunction shall not issue as asked for in the suit.

By the order each defendant is required to file his answer or other defense in the office of J. Wood Clark, Clerk of Federal district court on or before 20 days after service. Otherwise, it is stipulated, the bill may be taken without any defense.

HARDING PLAN FOR RAIL SETTLEMENT IS MADE PUBLIC

Cincinnati, July 31.—Five specific proposals for the settlement of the railroad strike are contained in President Harding's plan to be submitted to the railroads and unions Tuesday. It was asserted tonight by a union official.

The official, who refused to permit use of his name, stated that he had secured the information from rail union officials.

The five specific proposals, according to him include:

1.—That the employees will abide by the decisions of the United States Labor Board in the future.

2.—In the matter of seniority, the employees who remain on the job during the strike will receive preferential treatment. Men who have been on strike will return with their seniority subject to those rights acquired during the strike by men who remained on the job and that the seniority of the new men will date from that time.

3.—The men will accept the recent wage reductions of the Labor Board pending a further rehearing.

4.—"Farming out" of shop work to be eliminated.

5.—Discussion of the establishment of adjustment boards.

Regarding the matter of adjustment boards, the official stated that the unions desired a national board, while the railroad executives seek either regional or system boards.

Three points will be stressed by the general chairman tomorrow as a basis for settlement—restoration of full seniority, national boards of adjustment and elimination of the farming out of work. They will oppose curtailment or elimination of seniority.

FLAHARTY SAYS
K. OF C. KEEPS
ALL ITS PLEDGES

Atlantic City, N. J., August 1.—(United Press).—Pointing to the 1921 22 record of the Knights of Columbus as a fulfillment of their pledge, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty in his annual report before the international convention of the K. of C., today struck the keynote of the convention at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City.
He declared that the Knights would make their deeds and not their words the strongest argument for religious amity among Americans of all denominations.
The convention, excelling in numbers the America-First convention of the Knights in San Francisco last year, has brought delegates representing the 800,000 members of the Order from every State in the Union and every Province of Canada, besides from Newfoundland, the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska, Panama and Porto Rico. For the time of the opening of the convention with Solemn High Mass celebrated by the Bishop of Trenton, Monsignor Walsh at St. Nicholas Church, it was estimated that 20,000 K. of C. convention visitors were in Atlantic City.
Governor Edward I. Edwards and Mayor Harry Bader welcomed the convention officially to New Jersey and the convention city.
In his review of the K. of C. annual program Supreme Knight Flaherty declared the K of C. American history of movement was the most effective of any peace time patriotic work ever undertaken by the Knights. "I cannot deny most emphatically," he said, "the vicious and insidious propaganda which alleges that the war fund of the Knights of Columbus is being put to use in the historical and Italian welfare work of the organization. Not one penny of the K of C war fund has been devoted to these or any other movement not directly related to the welfare of the American service men."
He declared that the K of C. program to expend the $7,000,000 balance of its war fund on educational and hospitalization work, has progressed to such an extent that the Knights, during the past twelve months, rendered service in 362 hospitals to more than 25,000 men; that they had graduated 70,000 from their evening schools, provided 35,000 free courses in their new national correspondence school at New Haven and paid the way of 500 veterans in and out for another year. The colleges included such institutions as Yale, Georgetown and Notre Dame.
He stated that the new national headquarters of the Knights of Columbus in New Haven had been erected and equipped at a cost of $750,000 and that it contains the largest printing and publishing plant of its kind owned and operated by a fraternal organization. A continuous counter-movement against anti-Catholic propaganda would be maintained from the headquarters he announced.
Flaherty stated that Pope Pius XI had re-affirmed the request of the late Pope Benedict that the Knights maintain welfare work in Rome. Edward I. Hearn, K. of C. European Commissioner, he said, would bring the convention a special message from the Pope. The K of C. supreme council has voted $1,000,000 for the work.

WET AND DRY TOPIC Forty Reported Killed
IN LITERARY DIGEST In Wreck Of Paris Train
FOR THE THIRD WEEK To Shrine For Cripples

Neither a wet wetness nor a dry dryness" is the descriptive phrase applied by the editor of the New York Globe to the drift of opinion expressed by the first 94,000 votes tabulated in the July 15th issue, in The Digest's poll of the nation on Prohibition. Perhaps the most significant fact about the present tabulation of nearly four times as many votes is that, with growing numbers, the relative strength of the "dry", "moist" and "wet" votes remains much the same. There has been a slight drift to dryness, it is true, throughout the first three polls, but the total change is inconsiderable.
A commentary on Mr. Carlin's claim that, if the poll were confined to labor alone, "the sentiment would be found to be almost unanimous in favor of light wines and beers," is furnished by the results of the first of several polls which The Digest purposes taking in various factories. A poll of the Edison works in New Jersey gives the following results:
For Enforcement 98
For Modification 978
For Repeal 966
This poll was taken under the supervision of Charles A. Edison, who saw to it that the ballots were distributed one to each worker. They were marked secretly and deposited by the individual workers in sealed ballot boxes; later opened by representatives of The Digest. The result showed a proportion of slightly more than twenty to one against the continuation and enforcement of the liquor laws.
Any discussion or consideration of the question of prohibition, such as is involved in the present poll, is opposed by many "dry" advocates, on the grounds that, as Mr. Anderson, of the Anti-Saloon League explained in his detailed statement given space last week, modification would mean an attack on the Constitution of which the Prohibition Amendment is now a part. Samuel Wilson, Assistant State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, in charge of the Department of Law Enforcement expresses this attitude by a very strong statement.

Drifts of Sand.

Wherever dry, loose sand occurs, it is being constantly shifted by the wind. It often buries cultivated lands, buildings and forests. On the shores of Lake Michigan, there are drifts 100 feet deep. Those in Cornwall reach 300 feet in depth, and the drifts of the Gobi desert are 40 miles long and the 900 feet high in some places. On the shores of the Bay of Biscay, the drifting sand travels inland 18 feet a year; in parts of Denmark, 24 feet, and in southern India, 17 yards.
